Bing Crosby's Estate At Toluca Lake Guarded Following Threats

MIDWEST GANG FEARED

Other Film Colony Homes Marked For Extortion, G-men Learn

HOLLYWOOD, April 26—While special police patrolled the grounds of Bing Crosby's Toluca Lake home today, it was reliably learned that a ruthless midwestern kidnap gang was preparing to strike at Hollywood's wealthiest motion picture families, and the information has prompted G-men to take stringent measures to guard film colony celebrities.

Reports of the elaborate guarding plans came on the disclosure threats had been made against the four children of Crosby, noted film and radio crooner.

Acting on information said to have been wired by their agents in a midwestern city, local Department of Justice agents have conferred with Crosby on the kidnap threat, the star admitted.

"I talked with men from the Department of Justice about a week ago," Crosby said. "They asked me about the kidnap threats and we discussed them."

Crosby said the agents had asked him to say nothing about it, and for that reason declined to elaborate on the threats.

"I'm still carrying a gun," he commented tersely.

Others Menaced

From a responsible source came the sensational information that not only the Crosbys but other prominent Hollywood families had been advised to take precautions.

Local G-men referred all queries to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington.

PRESS FREEDOM NEED STRESSED BY A. N. P. A. HEAD

NEW YORK, April 26—Freedom of the press in America must not only be asserted, but the newspapers must constantly defend it from the "blatherskites and demagogues," James G. Stahlman, of Nashville, Tenn., president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, declared in an address today at the fifty-third annual meeting of the organization.

He advocated a public relations campaign on the part of the newspapers as "one thing that is badly needed," adding:

"We do more to promote the other fellow's business and less to promote our own than any crowd I know. We must not only promote the newspaper as a medium for the advertiser, but we must continue to sell it to the people as an agency of free expression and as their valued public servant. We must present a united front to the blatherskites and demagogues."

Stahlman told the assembled newspaper executives that during his administration he has endeavored to strengthen the understanding between the press, the motion picture industry and the radio.

REICH, ITALY CLAIM ALLY

British Envoy Forced To See Subordinate Nazi Attache

BERLIN, April 26—Chancellor Adolf Hitler drove remorselessly ahead today with his campaign to consolidate his position in preparation for the vital speech he will make before the Reichstag Friday, in answer to President Roosevelt's peace message.

The Fuehrer, in the presence of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, received Yugoslavian Foreign Minister Alexander Cincar-Markovitch, who has been lavishly entertained since he arrived here late yesterday after conferring with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Venice.

The reception accorded Cincar-Markovitch indicated that the Rome-Berlin axis is determined to line up Yugoslavia on its side of the current diplomatic dispute with the Anglo-French entente, and in fact it is claimed in Berlin that Yugoslavia has already made it clear that her sympathies lie with Italy and the Reich.

Col. Kokkinaki Perched At Moscow Waiting For Good Weather

MOSCOW, April 26—Magnetic disturbances over Finland and bad weather over portions of North America today were responsible for the postponement of the scheduled non-stop Moscow to New York flight of Col. Vladimir Kokkinaki, Soviet aviator.

Col. Kokkinaki had been scheduled to take off at 4 a. m., but was forced to delay his departure because of the weather. He said he would start as soon as favorable reports were received. He expects to reach New York about 24 hours after leaving Moscow. Col. Kokkinaki will be accompanied by Major Gordianko.

OHIOAN, 48, MUST DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., April 26—Governor Bricker today refused to grant a stay of execution to Harvey L. Roush, Marion county tenant farmer, who is to die tonight in the electric chair for the murder of Homer T. Myers, his former employer, and Myers' wife.

After a 45-minute conference in the executive office with Grant Mouser, of Marion, attorney for Roush, the governor issued the following statement:

"In view of the complete judicial process having been carried out, I do not consider it the function of the governor to in any way intervene."

Roush's attorneys asked the chief executive for a stay of execution yesterday because they asserted they did not have time to present a mercy plea before the clemency board.

Yesterday it was learned that Associate Justice McReynolds of the U. S. Supreme court barred Roush's case from the high tribunal. The Ohio supreme court previously had refused to interfere with the decision of a lower court in the case.

Just a year ago, the condemned man reportedly went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer T. Myers, wealthy Marion county farmers and forced Myers to cancel a note for $1,400. Then he shot and clubbed the couple to death and set fire to their home. Neighbors put out the blaze.

MAJOR TAXICAB STRIKE MENACES WORLD'S FAIR

NEW YORK, April 26—A major taxicab strike within 48 hours on the eve of the opening of the World's Fair threatened New York City today after a meeting of the major fleet owners and officials of the C. I. O. Transport Workers union ended in a deadlock.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia may make a new attempt to prolong negotiations and avert the threatened strike.

TOLEDO, April 26—The estate of Mrs. Ethel Kaufman, 73, of Toledo, who died April 11 in a Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium, grew by leaps and bounds today.

Mrs. Kaufman, whose modest appearance led sanitarian officials to believe her of small means, had $150,000 in cash and $350,000 in securities in her personal effects. She also owned property in downtown Toledo, and it was revealed yesterday that she had a deposit of 420,000 francs (approximately $11,230 at the current rate of exchange) deposited with the Paris office of the American Express Co. She also paid storage for 20 years on a trunk, contents unknown, in Paris.

In a vague will dated at Toledo, Oct. 6, 1923, Mrs. Kaufman left "two thirds of the net income" of her estate in equal parts to Leon D. Mowry of Morenci, Mich., a brother; Justina C. Baker of Monroe, Mich., a sister; Ethel Baker Kolb, of Cleveland, a niece, and Mary Henrietta Mowry, Leon Mowry's daughter.

Although she was known to be a world traveler, Mrs. Kaufman maintained such a modest appearance that Toledo lawyers charged her fees of but $3 to $5 for legal services.

Love Triangle Charged In "Auto Murder" Trial

ATTORNEY LINDAS

AN ALLEGED love triangle is charged in the trial of Harold Hastings, 35, unemployed steel worker, for the murder of Carl Schlett, 29, in Norwalk, O. Schlett's crushed body was found along a highway Jan. 25, apparently the victim of a hit-skip driver. Mrs. Schlett, 28, the widow, is now in jail on a murder charge and awaiting trial. The prosecution announced it would attempt to prove that Hastings and Mrs. Schlett had conducted a secret romance for over a year.

FARMERS BREAK UP ACTIVITY OF TWO A. F. L. MEN

SOMERSET, Pa., April 26—Further trouble was feared today following a farmer "revolt" in which two union organizers on the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh "all-weather" highway project were "run out of town" and their headquarters turned into a shambles.

Emulating dairymen who turned against sit-down strikers at Hershey two years ago, about 50 Somerset county farmers—angered because the union had refused to waive a $15 initiation fee for workers on the $65,000,000 highway project—marched on the union office.

They broke up furniture and then seized C. E. Stutzman and John Russell, A. F. of L. union organizers, from Johnstown, took them in a car two miles north of Somerset, tossed them out, and warned them not to return.

Two women workers also were ordered to leave. One woman employee at the headquarters charged Robert Hauger, a farmer, with assault and battery. Hauger later was dismissed at a hearing before justice of the peace.

Handbills, buttons and other paraphernalia of the construction, general labor and material handlers' union were scattered from the office. Stutzman and Russell later returned to Somerset where they drove away in their own car.

Norwalk Widow Places Husband, Accused Man Together Fatal Night

NORWALK, April 26—The state today continued its effort to build a strong circumstantial case against Harold Hastings, accused of the "motor car murder" of Carl Schlett, 29, while the defense attempted to show that Schlett, as well as his wife, Coletta, 28, had other dates.

Mrs. Schlett, indicted with Hastings for the murder of her husband, admitted on the witness stand yesterday that she had been intimate with Hastings, a 35-year-old unemployed Sandusky steel worker.

Her testimony that the last time she saw her husband alive was on the night of Jan. 26, when he drove off with Hastings in Hastings' automobile, was the most damaging the state has been able to muster against the defendant.

Schlett's body was found lying in the snow beside a lonely road near Bellevue early on the morning of Jan. 27. He had been killed by an automobile, which the state contends was deliberately driven to the side of the road to strike him.

IT'S JOHNSTOWN IN FAVORED ROLE AS DERBY NEARS

NEW YORK, April 26—Johnstown, William Woodward's sensational bay colt, loomed today as the East's leading standard bearer in the Kentucky Derby as a result of his record breaking feat in winning the Woodhaven purse at Jamaica.

Eased up through the final furlong, the handsome son of Jamestown covered the mile and seventy yards in 1:40 4-5, clipping two-fifths of a second from the track record and coming within a fifth of a second of the world's mark for the distance.

Although favored by the short turns of the egg-shaped oval, the sprinting star left no doubt in the minds of his admirers that he would be able to stick it out for the Derby distance of a mile and a quarter.

The crucial test will come Saturday when Johnstown measures strides in the Wood Memorial with El Chico, erstwhile Derby favorite, Gilded Knight, winner of the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace, and other crack three-year-olds.

COAL ARGUMENT DEADLOCK GOES ON IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, April 26—Despite the action of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in sending Dr. John R. Steelman to New York to mediate the dispute between John L. Lewis and the Bituminous coal operators over a new contract, it can be stated on excellent authority today that no progress has been made in the efforts to end the deadlock.

Steelman, head of the labor department's conciliation service, has run into as stiff a deadlock as can be imagined. Neither side at the conference table budged an inch yesterday when Steelman took over the job of bringing the conflicting elements together. The operators, headed by W. L. Robison, were just as adamant as the heavy-set, poker-faced Lewis, whose committee represents 420,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America who have been idle since the old contract expired on March 31.

Declaring he had no comment to make, Dr. Steelman scheduled a resumption of his mediatory efforts for today. Yesterday was his first full day as mediator. On his previous visit here last week he said he came to the conference only to get a "first hand picture" so he could report back to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

DEPUTIES SEEK INFORMATION ON CORN THIEVERY

The men held are Walter Jackson, 23, and Tilman Adkins, 22, both of New Lexington, and Harvey Mosley, 23, of Portsmouth. They were arrested in Portsmouth where they had disposed of alleged stolen corn.

According to Sheriff Gorman Clark the men confessed stealing corn in several central Ohio counties.

Conscription Looked On As Definite Warning To Reich's Fuehrer

'NATIONAL GUARD' FORMED

Chamberlain Announces Plan After Rumors Circulate About London

LONDON, April 26—In a history-making announcement, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that his government was launching immediate conscription of all eligible men between the ages of 20 and 21.

Thus, for the first time in centuries, England will have compulsory military service in peace-time.

Two hundred thousand men are expected to be affected by the initial draft.

The prime minister's announcement, while expected, was none the less breath-taking.

Sensation Tamed

It marked a thoroughly new departure in Great Britain's relations with Germany. For it was especially timed to precede Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's eagerly awaited speech to the Reichstag on Friday, at which time he will reply in detail to President Roosevelt's appeal to the dictators for a quarter-century of "guaranteed peace."

Only one thing served to soften the impact of the prime minister's declaration. This was his disclosure, in reply to a question, that Britain was ready as always to discuss arms limitation and a general European settlement with Germany or anyone else.

He emphasized his government's willingness to consider any proposals for better distribution of raw materials "to access of which there are practically no restrictions in the British colonial empire."

NEW YORK, April 26—Despite the action of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in sending Dr. John R. Steelman to New York to mediate the dispute between John L. Lewis and the Bituminous coal operators over a new contract, it can be stated on excellent authority today that no progress has been made in the efforts to end the deadlock.

Steelman, head of the labor department's conciliation service, has run into as stiff a deadlock as can be imagined. Neither side at the conference table budged an inch over the job of bringing the conflicting elements together. The operators, headed by W. L. Rorison, were just as adamant as the heavy-set, poker-faced Lewis, whose committee represents 420,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America who have been idle since the old contract expired on March 31.

Declaring he had no comment to make, Dr. Steelman scheduled a resumption of his mediatory efforts for today. Yesterday was his first full day as mediator. On his previous visit here last week he said he came to the conference only to get a "first hand picture" so he could report back to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

WIDOW SCHLETT

IT'S JOHNSTOWN IN FAVORED ROLE AS DERBY NEARS

NEW YORK, April 26—Johnstown, William Woodward's sensational bay colt, loomed today as the East's leading standard bearer in the Kentucky Derby as a result of his record breaking feat in winning the Woodhaven purse at Jamaica.

Eased up through the final furling, the handsome son of Jamestown covered the mile and seventy yards in 1:40 4-5, clipping two-fifths of a second from the track record and coming within a fifth of a second of the world's mark for the distance.

Although favored by the short turns of the egg-shaped oval, the sprinting star left no doubt in the minds of his admirers that he would be able to stick it out for the Derby distance of a mile and a quarter.

The crucial test will come Saturday when Johnstown measures strides in the Wood Memorial with El Chico, erstwhile Derby favorite, Gilded Knight, winner of the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace, and other crack three-year-olds.

BARTON A. HOLL RESIGNS LOGAN C. OF C. POSITION

Barton A. Holl, well known to many Circleville businessmen, has resigned as manager of the Logan Chamber of Commerce, effective May 15. His resignation was accepted by the board of directors.

Mr. Holl had been associated with the Logan Chamber of Commerce in an executive position for more than 10 years. He made no announcement concerning his plans for the future.

Until recently he was president-manager of the group. At the annual meeting in March the two offices were separated, Clarence Blosser being named president. It was indicated the managerial vacancy will not be filled immediately.

DRAFT TO PUT 200,000 UNDER EMPIRE COLORS

Conscription Looked On As Definite Warning To Reich's Fuehrer

'NATIONAL GUARD' FORMED

Chamberlain Announces Plan After Rumors Circulate About London

LONDON, April 26—In a history-making announcement, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that his government was launching immediate conscription of all eligible men between the ages of 20 and 21.

Thus, for the first time in centuries, England will have compulsory military service in peace-time. Two hundred thousand men are expected to be affected by the initial draft.

The prime minister's announcement, while expected, was none the less breath-taking.

Sensation Trained

It marked a thoroughly new departure in Great Britain's relations with Germany. For it was especially timed to precede Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's eagerly awaited speech to the Reichstag on Friday, at which time he will reply in detail to President Roosevelt's appeal to the dictators for a quarter-century of "guaranteed peace."

Only one thing served to soften the impact of the prime minister's declaration. This was his disclosure, in reply to a question, that Britain was ready as always to discuss arms limitation and a general European settlement with Germany or anyone else.

He emphasized his government's willingness to consider any proposals for better distribution of raw materials "to access of which there are practically no restrictions in the British colonial empire."

Berlin "Indifferent" Berlin officialdom protested an attitude of "indifference" over British conscription. But Chamberlain undoubtedly knew that his formal announcement could have nothing less than a tremendous effect on the whole European mentality and outlook.

Conscription in peace-time will mean that British will be compelled to abandon her easy-going, almost indolent attitude toward militarism, and throw all her resources into the war effort. (Continued on Page Eight)

Europe's Crisis

By International News Service While Germany assumed an attitude of sardonic indifference, the British government moved rapidly today toward inauguration of military conscription. Latest developments:

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced a "measure of conscription" in the House of Commons today.

BERLIN—Ignoring British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson, Chancellor Hitler received the Yugoslavian foreign minister. Such phrases as "propaganda" and "sour grapes" were hurled at London by the Nazi press.

PARIS—To strengthen national unity, French government barred publication of slander designed to "incite hatred among citizens."

MALTA—Several British naval units departed for cruise in eastern Mediterranean.

TOKYO—Japanese newspapers said cabinet has agreed to transform anti-Communist agreement into a military alliance against Soviet Russia.

KAIFENG—Honan Governor said Britain, France and Russia must be "expelled from China."

BICYCLE RIDER KILLED, PAL INJURED BY AUTO

Wayne, was injured seriously when the bicycles they were riding were struck by an auto at nearby Convoys. Authorities said the driver of the car was Edward Robinson of Gary, Ind.

COLUMBUS, April 26—Suicide was the official verdict today in the death of Col. Thomas Roy Leahy, 50, commanding officer of the 134th Field Artillery, a National Guard unit, who was found fatally wounded in his home here.

The body, with a bullet through the head, was discovered in a bedroom by Col. Leahy's eight-year-old daughter, Ann, when she and her mother returned from a movie. Coroner E. E. Smith declared the officer had taken his own life with a small rifle. He said the victim had been in ill health.

Col. Leahy was born in Columbus. He served with Troop B, Ohio Cavalry on the Mexican border in 1916 and with the 136th Field Artillery in France during the World War. He was placed in command of the Guard unit in 1932.

Besides his widow and daughter, he is survived by two sons.

His life has been an active one, spent mostly on the farm with time out long enough to spend a couple of years performing the duties as county commissioner. And this is not all. He has recently been appointed as chief justice of the Ashville "supreme court."

A lot of worry is coming now to the sales stamps hoarders as to how to safely store them away and keep 'em put, until a $100 worth has been collected and ready for the three-dollar rebate.

To the Editor of The Circleville Herald, Circleville, Ohio

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Easter Seal Sale and Ball Committee of this city, we wish to commend you for the generous spirit in which you have cooperated toward making a success of the campaign for funds.

Your news columns have been open at all times to such items of interest as we have offered and you have been such a consistent booster of this effort on behalf of the women and men of tomorrow that we feel sure the goal would not have been achieved without your assistance.

It is a source of gratification for all those who have given up their time and money in this worthy cause to announce the completion of the drives. It is a pleasure to acknowledge so many evidences of true community spirit and to thank you one and all who helped to demonstrate once again that Circleville has the proper spirit in regard to their problems and their solutions. We confidently predict that the entire community will realize concrete evidences of benefits of increased activity for the crippled children.

Among the hundreds of license auto plates disposed of at Clyde Brinker's there were two for motorcycles. A plate or two is disposed of nearly every day.

Cecil Scott, waterworks superintendent, has been presented with a brand new motorized lawn mower to be used out at the plant lawn of some two acres. And without asking him about it, we are sure the village officials, the donors, have his many thanks for the present. And last year the state inspector of village water plants, gave Ashville the Number One place of them all.

Fred Hines, "Hi Boy" of the local band, told us Wednesday morning that the first meeting of the season held Tuesday evening was extra well attended with all the kiddies "rarin' to go." At least 40 members will compose this year's band.

SOYBEAN RULING MAY BE VITAL

Farmers Watch Outcome Of Resolution To Change Classification

A question of much importance to growers of soybeans may be decided soon by the Department of Agriculture following a resolution adopted recently by the National Farm Chemurgic Council, meeting in Jackson, Miss.

The resolution calls on the Department of Agriculture to change the classification of soybeans in the soil conservation program.

The department is asked to amend its rulings so that soybeans when grown on level or gently undulating land, and harvested in such a manner as to return the leaves, stems and pods to the land, be no longer classified as soil depleting.

The resolution stated that "the future of this legume crop is seriously endangered by the Department of Agriculture continuing year after year, contrary to all experiment station evidence, to classify soybeans harvested with a combine as soil depleting."

NEW YORKER JAILED 109 TIMES ON WIFE'S CHARGES

MONTICELLO, N. Y., April 26—Louis Kranz' patience was nearing the exhaustion point today.

In 10 years of married life he has been arrested 109 times on charges preferred by his wife.

He is seeking his release from jail on an alimony delinquency charge on the contention that he is impoverished.

His attorney, Ben Goldstein, asserted that none of the 109 arrests resulted in a conviction on any of the several petty charges on which they were made. Kranz added that his wife, against whom a separation action is pending, wants him in jail so she can control their jointly-owned rooming house.

STUDIES recently made in eighteen of the country's leading Cadillac-LaSalle retail outlets reveal that almost half the people who go for a demonstration in a new LaSalle actually buy a LaSalle. Why? Because of LaSalle's sensational performance. Its Cadillac-built engine is so smooth and quiet and powerful that it makes all others seem commonplace. It's easy to test this. Go for a ride yourself. A half hour is all you will need to learn why LaSalle's the leader in the medium-price field.

BRICKER READY TO PERMIT BIG FUND FOR POOR

Governor May Agree To Sign Bill Calling For Boost Of $1,500,000

FINANCIERS IN SESSION

Several Important Statutes Discussed; Sterilization Bill Passes House

COLUMBUS, April 26—Governor Bricker will accede to a $20,000,000 appropriation for poor relief instead of his recommended $18,500,000 for the biennium if the joint relief committee makes such a demand.

A reliable source revealed that the governor would not take an arbitrary position should the committee recommend that an additional $1,500,000 be spent as the state's share during the next 18 months.

Any increase which the governor deemed out of proportion, however, and carrying the threat of unbalancing what the administration hopes will be a balanced budget, would be given the veto as should it pass the legislature, it was learned.

Committee At Work

Meanwhile, the house finance committee remained at work on the entire biennial appropriation bill and it was expected the measure will be reported out tomorrow or Friday. If this were done, the bill would receive house consideration next week, Rep. R. R. Bangham, chairman of the committee, said.

Continued demands have been made on members of the relief committee for more than $18,500,000 and there was every indication that from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 additional would be requested as the state's share.

Inasmuch as the relief bill is to become a part of the general appropriation bill, the house finance committee slowed up its procedure with the hope that all differences will be smoothed over before the house at large receives the important legislation for a vote.

With relief and general appropriations paramount on the legislative program for the remainder of the session, administration bills to reorganize the tax commission, civil service commission and parole board bogged down in the senate.

A conference committee named last week to iron out amendment difficulties in the tax commission bill has not yet held a meeting and committee members were vague as to when a session would be called.

Parole Ripper To Stand

The senate refused for the second time to reconsider amendments to the parole board ripper and a conference committee on the matter appeared almost a certainty.

Shoving aside the civil service bill which would add a third member to the commission, the senate judiciary committee postponed action for a week after Sen. Grant P. Ward (R-Columbus) the chairman, refused to receive an amendment re-inserting the seniority clause.

The section would have provided for the laying off of the newest member of a department in case of a retrenchment program.

Knocked out by the house when it passed the bill because it might work to the detriment of the new Republican administration, the clause apparently had little chance of being placed back in the measure by the senate.

Political observers pointed out that under such a seniority clause civil service employees placed on the state payroll since the Bricker administration took charge would be the first ones to go in case of retrenchment.

Little opposition was expected when the Reiners bill, which would set up an Ohio stream pollution commission, comes up for a vote in the senate today.

Amendment Delivered

Action on the measure was delayed when Sen. Fred Reiners (R-Cincinnati) its author, refused to sign the committee report because of an amendment exempting coal mines from provisions of the bill. He succeeded finally in having the amendment deleted.

The bill would create an Ohio Valley Sanitation District, taking in the Ohio drainage basin. The Ohio commission would cooperate with commissions of six other states in recommending methods of ridding the Ohio river and tributaries of pollution, which proponents claim is a health menace.

Immediate action was necessary on the bill if it were to become law before the regular session of the legislature adjourns. If the senate passes it today it goes to the house for consideration.

A bill scheduled for a vote in the house today would require that all automobiles used for

How Guns Menace Gibraltar

BRITAIN'S once-impregnable Rock of Gibraltar, key to the Mediterranean, is now menaced on three sides and will be in grave peril in event of war, as this map shows. Powerful guns, said to have been installed by Germany and Italy, threaten the Rock from the Spanish mainland at Algeiras; Spanish batteries and troops are reported in the area where the Rock joins the mainland; and across the Strait of Gibraltar in Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, is more heavy artillery, said to have been installed by the Axis.

Sportsmen Plan to Feed, Shelter County Game

A group of sportsmen of the Pickaway County Farmer's and Sportsman's association worked out plans Tuesday night to establish six "patch planting" areas in the county this year to provide feed and cover for game.

The areas, ranging from one half acre to an acre, will be planted with seed furnished by the conservation department. Arrangements will be worked out with farmers to plow and plant the areas and give them one cultivation. This expense will be met by the association.

The planting projects will be on the farms of H. C. Baum and Earl Miller, Harrison township. Mrs. Florence Teegardin, Madison township; Cecil Noecker, Walnut township; C. K. Hunsicker, Deer Creek township, and Mrs. Paul Adkins, Pickaway township.

A meeting of the sportsmen was called at the Harden-Stevens garage to confer with representatives of the conservation department about the plans for planting the "patches."

Mayor W. B. Cady and B. F. Harden were appointed on a committee to work out plans to obtain propagation areas in each township of the county this year.

The club hopes to establish a number of "safety zones" in the county for game. These zones would be closed to hunting. Sportsmen plan to make repairs on the canal dam in the near future. Flood water recently washed around the dam.

UNDER THE DOME

Vice President Jack Garner was not amused when a newspaperman jestingly told him about a recent story that he was the "Republican candidate for the Democratic nomination" . . . Although Senator Jimmy Byrnes gave "Cotton Ed" Smith powerful support in his reelection last year, Smith is so jealous of his more popular colleague that he won't invite him to conferences of the "cotton bloc". When Smith's secretary included Byrnes' name in a list of conferees, Smith scratched it off.

Roberts is a close friend of Lewis Douglas, former anti-spending Budget Director whom Roosevelt let out in 1934 . . . Like President Roosevelt, with whose policies he is 100 percent in accord, handsome Senator Jim Mead of New York is an ardent stamp collector. He is also a believer in exercise; holds that members of Congress should take daily workouts in the gymnasium.

NEW YORK, April 26—Marion Talley, the former opera star, and an eye specialist were expected to testify in Supreme Court today in another phase of the singer's battle to obtain custody of her four-year-old daughter.

A major point in Miss Talley's testimony was expected to be the contention that the child is suffering from an eye ailment and that her estranged husband, Adolph G. Eckstrom, is unable to finance the cost of an operation. A specialist who examined the child will report his findings in court. The child is at present with the father.

In reply, Dodge simply says: "Why not decide for yourself? Take a look...that's all Dodge asks!"

Before you decide on any car, take a look at the new 1939 Dodge from every standpoint—beauty, roominess, luxury, ruggedness, economy. Be critical. Compare Dodge point for point with other cars. See for yourself how much Dodge gives you!

Then take a look at the price tag! You'll be amazed when you find this big, rugged Luxury Liner is priced even lower than last year's Dodge!

GOODNESS OF CITIES

SOIOLOGY, one of the newer sciences, concerned with social relations and institutions, turns up a lot of surprising facts. Here are some things about our American society reported by Dr. Edward L. Thorndike of Teachers College, in New York City. He tells about it in a book called "Your City."

We have the most general "goodness of life for good people" in cities where there are plenty of artists, engineers, musicians, nurses and teachers, but not very many clergymen, lawyers, actors, veterinarians or domestic servants, he says. Any group of intelligent people might spend an interesting evening trying to figure out why that should be so—if it is so.

And here's a nut to crack. The higher the church membership in a city, he says, the lower is "the general goodness of life." The fuller the churches are, the less good reading, home ownership and schooling. How about that?

He gauges the "goodness" of a community, as a place to live in, by its literacy, its amount of crime, its circulation of library books, its ownership of automobiles and radios, its death rate from appendicitis, its policemen's and teachers salaries, its child labor, the value of its parks, and the price of permanent waves.

Cities that spend money largely for tobacco, he says, are much better than those that spend it largely for drugs.

THE DURABLE MULE

THE horse may be disappearing, but the mule is going strong. Anyone who doubts this should spend a little time in Alabama and neighboring states. There must be about as much plowing in this country right now with one-mule plows as with tractors.

And when it comes to military use, army men swear by the mule as well as at him. The army may be mechanized, says Col. Lee Davis of the Twenty-Fifth Infantry in Arizona, but when the going gets tough in the hill country, the good old army mule saves the day.

"There will always be places where a mule can go, where no truck or tractor in the world would attempt to follow," he says. Sure, the mule is stubborn, but far more intelligent than the horse when it comes to taking care of himself. He is more sure-footed and careful where the going's rough, and when he's hot and sweating he knows more than to eat and drink till he's cooled off. "A horse under the same conditions will eat and drink all he can hold," says the Colonel, "and make himself sick."

He tells of a brown pack mule named Myrtle who is 31 years old, and was with Pershing in Mexico in 1916, and is still

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

HITLER'S NEXT GRAB AWAITED

WASHINGTON—The next piece of territory which Hitler is expected to nick out of Europe is the Free City of Danzig—probably on or about August 28.

Reason Danzig is the most likely victim is because it is already pretty well Nazified and less likely to provoke war.

Hitler's tactics continue, as in the past, to be that of taking territory in areas which are awkward for the democracies to defend. Nobody wants to go to war for Danzig, one of the freak creations of the Versailles Treaty, and Hitler knows it.

It is not supposed to be known, but on his way home from signing the defensive alliance with Great Britain, Colonel Josef Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, got a telephone call from Foreign Minister Bonnet of France urging him to stop in Berlin to discuss Danzig. Bonnet's idea was to arrange for return of the allegedly Free City to Germany before it caused real trouble.

Simultaneously, the appeasement forces (now called the umbrella forces) are at work again in England, urging more concessions to Germany. They were behind the return of British Ambassador Neville Henderson to Berlin, despite the fact that he makes no secret of his pro-Nazi sympathy.

Dissension within the British Cabinet is the biggest asset Hitler has, and the reason smaller countries of Europe don't trust the British alliances.

FARLEY AND McNUTT

Big Jim Farley felt it like an uppercut to the chin when Paul V. McNutt's campaign manager, Frank McHale, said in a comforting tone: "Jim, I want you to know that when my man gets in, we intend to keep you as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. So don't worry about the future."

Farley squared off and replied: "Frank, you and I belong to the same lodge and can understand each other. And I'm telling you that your man is not going to be President and he is not going to be Vice President. So you don't need to be charitable about me."

RETIRED BRANDEIS

The telephone rings less than ever at 2205 California Street, and ex-Justice Louis D. Brandeis is happy. He never liked the telephone. The ringing distracted him, and Mrs. Brandeis always answered it.

Now that he has retired from the Supreme Court, there are probably more outgoing than incoming calls. There is a social secretary who comes twice a week, in the morning, to call up 25 persons and going strong. "Myrtle goes on all drills, hikes and maneuvers, and has shown no sign of weakening," he says. "A good mule, properly fed and cared for, will last almost indefinitely."

We heard of a young gang leader the other day who was telling the rest of the kids what he'd do to any guy that tried to disturb the status quo in that neighborhood "by force or threats of force."

World At A Glance

One American tendency of today is in the direction of splitting our states up into a lot of economically independent principalities. Another tendency is toward such a concentration of political power in Washington as to knock state rights into a cocked hat. Paradoxically these two tendencies don't exactly conflict. It looks as if economic over-localization and political over-centralization might be accomplished collaterally. The states are erecting protective tariff walls against one another. At the same time each state is demanding federal money, for its purely internal needs, at a rate which promises to make it wholly dependent for its own support upon Uncle Sam's general government; that is to say, incapable of carrying on except with financial grants from Capitol Hill in the District of Columbia.

This situation, somewhat belatedly, is beginning to worry quite a few of our national legislators and several of our governors, too. They're starting to talk about it. It's getting advertised.

INTERSTATE TARIFFS

A state can't constitutionally put up a protective tariff wall against other states, of course. But it doesn't call its tariff wall a tariff wall.

For example, Florida produces a deal of cement. It wanted to exclude cement from rival states. So it passed a law subjecting incoming cement to tests, which were made so expensive that the incoming stuff, even though it passed muster, couldn't compete with Florida's product.

The United States Supreme Court recently ruled against that law, saying that a tariff was what it really amounted to. However, there are plenty of similar tariffs that haven't yet been ruled unconstitutional. Illustratively there are laws which keep western dairy products out of the eastern markets under sanitary regulations which the westerners are unable to comply with, however excellent their goods. A fearful row is raging over these rules in Congress now. There are "use taxes" on many commodities. There are virtually prohibitive regulations concerning auto-trucks in inter-state operation. There are "ports of entry" at state lines.

It's an internal tariff system, that's all. The Conference of Governors so recognizes it, but only half-heartedly, because each governor has to be mindful of sentiment within his own state.

President Roosevelt made a speech the other day, in which he suggested that George Washington found himself in duty bound to accept the presidency of the whole United States (probably more against his inclination) to prevent the individual states from splitting into a crew of warring peoples, like the little Balkans. Many folks contended that he was providing himself, in advance, with an excuse for a third term. Yet maybe, certain critics remark, he had in mind conditions of the sort we confront now.

BUT FEDERAL MONEY?

A few days later the President made another speech, on the subject of penitentiary paroles. It may not appear that there's much relationship between interstate tariffs and penitentiary paroles. Yet states' spokesmen contended that the federal government should finance penitentiary paroles—state prison paroles.

Should the federal government guarantee and finance 'em? Representative Summers of Texas submitted, "No." He was tired, he stated, of having the U. S. government asked to pay state expenses.

The federal government, he pointed out, doesn't pay the bill. The states pay it in the long run. They pay for parole and they pay for relief, and they pay for all that Congress votes.

The Round-Worm

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

SCIENCE believes that the parasites which are found in man today have existed as long as man. Avicenna, the Arabian physician, who was born in 981 A. D., gave us a very good description of the round-worm.

Any mother or housewife could describe it, but to construct its life cycle was a real piece of research. Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The life cycle of all parasites is complicated. If parasites could think and observe what is going on, they would lead the most exciting lives in the whole animal kingdom.

Indifferent Life

For instance, the round-worm! Unless a round-worm finds a human host, it leads a completely indifferent life. It can live on the cold ground, in ponds, rivers or plants, but it does not under these circumstances grow or reproduce. It is extremely resistant to chemicals, and my friend, Professor J. P. Day, who has devoted his life to the study of worms, showed me last year a round-worm that he had kept in a solution of formaldehyde for 48 hours.

It may enter the body from eating contaminated fruit. But, curiously, the usual way is by eating dirt. Strange as this sounds, children habitually pick up dirt and eat it.

The parasite passes through the stomach, and in the upper part of the intestine it goes through a varied performance. The larvae worms work their way through the wall of the intestine, enter the blood stream and get to the lungs. A condition that closely resembles pneumonia often results. The poor child who is thus afflicted coughs up the worms, swallows some of them and in the intestine they start life all over again. By this time they are so adult that they do not attempt to penetrate the intestine any more but are dormant.

Diagnosis

Diagnosis in the late stage is easy, but during the period when the worms are in the lungs many a doctor has been fooled into calling the syndrome pneumonia. The mother has a much better chance of making the proper diagnosis, providing that she knows of the possibility of round-worm infection of the lungs, because she is more likely to see the worms coughed up.

Treatment is very simple and satisfactory. In spite of the fact that Professor Day's worm lived in formaldehyde, there is one chemical that the round-worm cannot stand. That is oil of chenopodium; it is given in doses of three to five minims.

READ THIS FIRST:

Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his wife's place is in the home, with their new-born baby, Jessica. Eleanor, who met Phil on a small-town newspaper, has aspirations to do some kind of writing and supplement Phil's modest salary. Phil has a talk with Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper, who let Eleanor assist her for a few weeks before the baby was born. Kate stops in at the Parrish apartment "a Greenwich Village to tell Eleanor she cannot take her back for a few months at least. Phil proposes a house on Long Island, but Eleanor objects. Times become difficult and Phil is put on the night shift at the paper. With long evenings on her hands, Eleanor suddenly decides to try her hand at a novel.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

AUTUMN CAME and went swiftly on the wings of work. Eleanor greeted the mornings joyfully. She lived those days for the long, quiet evenings when, with Jessica asleep and Phil at work, she sat down at the typewriter and lost herself in the making of her novel.

Gone was her desire to be part of an office force. She had a new world peopled with characters of her own creation. They belonged to her alone.

She did not tell Phil that she was writing.

Nor did she allow it to have any part of her domestic life. Born to organize, she divided her life into a pattern; part of it—the days—belonged to Phil and the baby. Those hours she spent cleaning, laundering for her family, cooking and caring for the baby. The rest of her time was her precious own.

Phil's night off was Wednesday, and on Wednesday evening, leaving Jessica in the care of the youngest Petrella girl, the Parrishes set forth on the excursions a limited purse permitted. They dined out in cheap restaurants and went to the theater or to the movies on passes Phil got from the office. Sometimes they went to art exhibits or outdoor concerts. They saw little of the old crowd since they could no longer afford to return hospital.

But Eleanor was excited and happy. There was a vividness about her that her husband saw with relief and did not question its source.

It was enough for her that she had an absorption. She had no plans beyond the writing of the book. Whether it was good enough for publication, she had no idea or little interest at that point. Perhaps, she thought vaguely, when it was finished she would like to be, she would show it to a publisher. Later, perhaps, she would tell Phil about it.

Back of the secrecy which she maintained were two motives: her own desire to keep it for her own, and a quality in her love for her husband that wanted to spare him from the unhappiness she knew he would feel—that any man would feel—discovering that his wife had done what he had always said he would do.

She couldn't remember when they had stopped talking about the novel that Phil was going to write. Yet, somehow she knew that they had both wordlessly accepted his abandonment when he had been put on the night shift at the office. Her pity for him then was stronger than her wish to make him apply himself to something else.

She told herself that when he got back to a daytime job, she would try to interest him again in the forgotten work.

Phil came home triumphant one March morning and awakened her to tell her that Abrams had put him back on the old beat.

Eleanor was sleepy and joyful for him. She rejoiced with him.

But lying awake, long after he had gone to sleep, she thought of the adjustment she would have to make in her own program.

"Strident Symphony" was nearly finished, but there were many changes that she wanted to make. And she knew now that when it was finished, another story, already taking form in her mind, was clamoring for her expression. What time would she have to work on it?

She would find time. She must find a way to have free evenings!

"Want to go to the bouts at the Garden?" Phil asked her one night.

"Why don't you go with the boys?" she answered.

She encouraged him to play bridge with "the boys."

That was one of the ways that she hoarded evenings for herself.

Later there were other ways.

There were times when he'd ring her from the office and ask her to meet him. "The gang's going over to the Weid's, baby. Leave Jessica with Louisa and come and meet me."

"Would you mind going without me, Phil? There are . . . some things . . . I'd like to get done tonight. Run along and have a good time."

At first Phil had protested. In time he accepted her suggestions. It had been almost a year since he had had any good times. He was like a boy out of school.

Eleanor was eager to hear about these good times, but her interest was objective and not subjective. She indicated no desire to take part in them.

Eleanor had other interests, interests that she would have shunned a year before. She had taken to calling on her neighbors. She had developed a searching sympathy for their stories. She talked to the mothers, the wives and the romantic girls to whom she once would have only bowed.

She discussed recipes and clothes and husbands, not her own, with the Rosenbergs, the Petrellas and the Kellys.

It was May when she made the last correction on her typed script. Then she was eager to do something with it. But she put it away in a big manila envelope, disciplining herself to wait until a little time had passed. Later, when the story was not so fresh in her mind, she would take it out and look at it critically. Then, if it pleased her, would be time enough to do something about it.

The other story, as yet untitled, tempted her. But she would not start it until her mind was clear of the last.

She felt empty when she put the story on the shelf in her clothes closet. She had boundless energy and nothing to do with it. She was keyed to a tension that had no outlet.

"Don't you think it's about time we had a party?" she said to Phil one May night. "It seems like years since we've had one."

Phil didn't answer at once. He was thinking of the shabbiness of the apartment, and that once Eleanor would have refused to entertain any such idea for that reason.

"It would be fun to see the old gang," she added.

She got out a pencil and pad and began to write names.

"We might manage one of the suppers we used to have when we first were married. Flowers are cheap now and I might cover the chairs with some bright chintz." She carried him along on the wave of her enthusiasm.

"Anyone we've forgotten?" she demanded when the list was finished.

"There's a girl I'd like to ask," he said hesitantly.

"Of course, darling. Who is she? Do I know her?"

He shook his head. He said, casually: "Her name's Mona Ahlberg." Eleanor knitted her brow. "Mona Ahlberg? I seem to know the name."

"She's on the paper. You've seen her by-line. We've covered a lot of stuff together. She's keen, Nell. You'll like her."

"Young?" Eleanor asked.

"About my age."

"Oh! There wasn't any expression at all in Eleanor's voice. She was trying to remember how much they'd paid for a gallon of chianti.

"You two will have a lot in common. She's a born newspaper woman. I've seen her land stuff an old-timer couldn't get."

"Got a crush on her?" Eleanor asked mildly. The chianti, she thought, had been two dollars a gallon.

"Of course not!" he said, turning from her so that she would not see the expression on his face.

Eastern Star Honors Its Past Matrons, Patrons

30 Present For Ritualistic Service

Past matrons and past patrons of Circleville chapter, No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, were especially honored during the ritualistic service of the organization Tuesday night and at the social session which followed. Thirty were present for the occasion and were given a gracious welcome by Mrs. E. S. Shane, worthy matron. Each was presented a small potted plant as a favor.

The honored guests were escorted to seats in the East. The initiatory work planned for the evening was exemplified by the officers of Circleville chapter.

Following the ritualistic work, the honored guests and members of the chapter were invited to the Red room where a table was set, lavely in its lace cloth, crystal bowls of iris and many burning tapers.

Delicious refreshments were served by the April committee comprised of Mrs. George Forster, chairman, Miss Elizabeth Hilliard, Miss Doris Schreiner, Mrs. Dwight Steele, Mrs. F. K. Blair, Mrs. Paul Counts, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. Noah Spangler, Mrs. Sam Morris, Mrs. Earl Price, Mrs. Robert Denman, Mrs. Guy Pettit, Mrs. John Magill and Mrs. Loren Lutz.

A called meeting of the Social Club was held in the Red room with Miss Bertha Valentine, president, in the chair.

Mrs. Noah Spangler extended an invitation to all members of the Eastern Star to attend the meeting of the Merry-Makers' Swing club Friday at 2 p. m. in her home on W. High street.

Senior Class Play

"The Late Christopher Bean", a gay comedy in three acts, will be presented by the Senior class of Circleville high school, Thursday and Friday, May 5 and 6, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The comedy has to do with a family of New Englanders who have, years before, given refuge to a great artist. The play opens some years after the death of Bean, with an excited world in pursuit of his work and any details they can gather as to his life and character. Dr. Haggett and his family, who have some of Bean's canvases, suddenly realize their value, and become haughty, selfish and ill-tempered. It is, however, Abby, the family servant, who ultimately holds them all in her power; she has one of his greatest paintings, which she cannot be persuaded into selling or giving away; it turns out that she is the only one who really understood and appreciated the artist—besides, she had been married to him.

The play depends mostly on clever situations, the surprising twists of plot, the piquant developments of character, and the bit-by-bit unfolding of the history of Bean himself. It is genuinely witty, a blissfully absurd play, building up to better fun each instant of each act.

Eugene Dewey will present the part of Dr. Haggett, with the part of Mrs. Haggett taken on different nights by Eleanor McDill and Virginia Guseman; Abby will be played by Mary Hays and Ruth Montelius, while the part of Susan will be played at both performances by Medrith Bach. Pauline Crosby will play Ada; Warren Bumgarner, Tallant; David Glick, Warren; Ralph Hoffman, Rosen and Frank Barnhill, Davenport, at both the Thursday and Friday performances.

Adabelle May will be property manager; Jennings Turner, stage manager and Ruth Clark will be in charge of the business details. Samuel Johnson, dramatics coach of Circleville high school, is in charge of the production of the play.

Tickets may be reserved Monday, May 1, at 3 p. m. at Hamilton and Ryan's drug store.

Telephone Convention

The annual convention of the Ohio Independent Telephone companies convened Tuesday at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus, and will continue through Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lutz and Miss Mary Howard attended the sessions Tuesday and Wednesday and were guests at the banquet and ball Tuesday night. Miss Bernadine Lutz attended the banquet and dance and others of the local office attending the dance were Miss Erma Watts, Miss Ruth Vannatta and Miss Mildred Francis.

GARDEN-GRAPH

Patching the Rose Garden with Potted Plants

If any of the roses planted in your garden last Fall or early this Spring have die leaving "holes" in your rose bed, do not despair. The holes in a rose bed can be patched by the use of potted plants.

Each year rose growers are potting more roses for just such patching their customers. The potted rose which, as shown in the illustration, has been pretrimmed and pre-fertilized can be planted at any season.

When potted roses have been planted in the rose bed to fill vacancies it is best to protect them for a few days from wind and sun, otherwise the foliage, which is apt to be tender, will suffer.

Senior Class Play

"The Late Christopher Bean", a gay comedy in three acts, will be presented by the Senior class of Circleville high school, Thursday and Friday, May 5 and 6, at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The comedy has to do with a family of New Englanders who have, years before, given refuge to a great artist. The play opens some years after the death of Bean, with an excited world in pursuit of his work and any details they can gather as to his life and character. Dr. Haggett and his family, who have some of Bean's canvases, suddenly realize their value, and become haughty, selfish and ill-tempered. It is, however, Abby, the family servant, who ultimately holds them all in her power: she has one of his greatest paintings, which she cannot be persuaded into selling or giving away; it turns out that she is the only one who really understood and appreciated the artist—besides, she had been married to him.

The play depends mostly on clever situations, the surprising twists of plot, the piquant developments of character, and the bit-by-bit unfolding of the history of Bean himself. It is genuinely witty, a blissfully absurd play, building up to better fun each instant of each act.

Eugene Dewey will present the part of Dr. Haggett, with the part of Mrs. Haggett taken on different nights by Eleanor McDill and Virginia Guseman; Abby will be played by Mary Hays and Ruth Monteluis, while the part of Susan will be played at both performances by Medrith Bach. Pauline Crosby will play Ada; Warren Bumgarner, Tallant; David Glick, Warren; Ralph Hoffman, Rosen and Frank Barnhill, Davenport, at both the Thursday and Friday performances.

Adabelle May will be property manager; Jennings Turner, stage manager and Ruth Clark will be in charge of the business details. Samuel Johnson, dramatics coach of Circleville high school, is in charge of the production of the play.

Tickets may be reserved Monday, May 1, at 3 p. m. at Hamilton and Ryan's drug store.

Bowling News

Bob Ekins, consistent leadoff man for the Yates-Sinclair team in the City 10-pin league, turned in a brilliant 605 series Tuesday evening to pace his team to a three in a row victory over the Merchants Five. Ekins, one of the high average bowlers of the league, hit 225-172-208 for his aggregate.

In the other match rolled Tuesday the Hanley Lefties won two out of three games from the Mader Funeral Service.

CLEVELAND AGE HAS CHANCE TO SCORE 30 WINS

Bob Feller Gives Up One Run, Seven Hits In Two Contests

NEW YORK, April 26—If there is a potential 30-game winner in the major leagues today, it is Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

The young man from Iowa always had blinding speed and a great curve. But he lacked control baseball "savvy" and the polse that goes with those essentials.

Now he seems to have the full equipment that undoubtedly will lead him into the circle of 20-game winners and may even place him among the immortals who have won 30 or more in a season. Making his seasonal debut against the hard-hitting Tigers the other day, he gave only three hits and fanned ten. He turned in his second victory yesterday against the White Sox by giving only four hits and fanning nine for a 7-1 decision.

May Hurl 200 Whiffs
In two games he has allowed a total of two runs, seven hits and has fanned 19. That's wonderful pitching and those strike-outs indicate he may run his total for the season over the 200 mark.

Not the least surprising thing about the early games is the number of rookies who are making good in the big top. The latest to join the ever growing crop is John Henry Kramer of the Browns via San Antonio.

This big, 21-year-old right hander let the Tigers down with six hits yesterday while his mates pounded out a 7-2 margin for him. The Yanks, of course, got another well pitched game from Ruffing and Hadley to beat the Athletics, 8-4. Ruffing left at the end of the fifth with a pulled muscle but probably will be ready to meet his next turn on the mound.

The ever-amazing champions have made six homers in as many games and each of them was made by a different player which only goes to show that a pitcher can never find a breathing spot in the Yankee hitting order.

The Red Sox had to travel 11 heats to get a 6-5 nod over the Senators, Jimmy Fox's second homer of the year finally breaking up the game.

The Phillies continue to be the toast of the National League. Doc Prothro's hopefuls have now four straight to their credit and the oldest inhabitant can hardly recall when a Philly team rung up that many victories in a row.

They are getting some fine pitching and so long as they continue to get it, they will make trouble for all comers. Claude Passeau tamed the Giants with five hits while the Phils slaughtered Melton, who failed again, Lohrman and Brown for an 8-1 win.

Dodgers Tough
Luke Hamlin, the bell-wether of the Dodger flock, had another fine effort on tap and he had to be good to eke out a 3-2 decision over the Bees, because his mates could get only five hits off Lanning and Erickson.
Whitey Moore of the Red had what it takes to trim the Cardinals, 5-1, and Big Bill Lee of the Cubs had little trouble downing the Pirates, 5-3. The Pirates in last place, the Giants in the second division and the Phils in third place—that's something for the book!

A meeting, scheduled for Friday at 7 p. m. in the Coca Cola plant, is of vital importance to athletes who hope to have a recreation ball league this Summer. The date is the final one for entering teams.

Six outfits have already signed up for the loop, which will be headed by Joe Brink, James Lyle, W. Mound street, was elected as secretary-treasurer at an organization meeting Tuesday evening.

The teams already signed include Purina Feeds, Wallace Bakery, Fenton Cleaners, Bronzeville Jollies, Williams Grocers of Commercial Point, and Eschelman Feeds. Four teams from out of

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 180 DURING WEEK OF MAY 17 TO 25

TOTAL LEAVING CLASSES FALLS 42 UNDER 1938

Walnut Township Tops List With 31; Monroe Smallest, Five Getting Diplomas

One hundred and eighty young men and women will be graduated from Pickaway county schools at commencement exercises between May 17 and 25.

The number of graduates was announced Wednesday by George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools. Last year the graduates of county schools totaled 222.

Mr. McDowell said he was unable to give an explanation for the smaller number of graduates this year. "The figures vary from year to year," he said. "Next year the number may be larger."

Schools throughout the county will close the week of May 22. Walnut township heads the list with the largest number of graduates, 31. Monroe township has the smallest group, only five. The number of graduates and commencement dates for the schools include Darby township, 16, May 24; Deer Creek township, 15, May 19; Jackson township, eight, May 18; Monroe township, five, May 24; Mühlenberg township, seven, May 24; Perry township, 16, May 17; Pickaway township, 13, May 24; Salt Creek township, nine, May 25; Scioto township, 17, May 24; Washington township, seven, May 23; Walnut township, 31, May 23; Ashville, 20, May 22, and New Holland village, 16, May 18.

The Circleville commencement will be June 2 with about 85 to graduate.

STRIKE IMPAIRS WORK ON RAILS; EMPLOYEES CUT

Shrinkage in freight traffic due to the deadlock in the bituminous labor contract negotiations has caused no reduction to date in the number of Pennsylvania railroad employees in Circleville, a check Wednesday revealed.

Several hundred Pennsylvania railroad employees will be placed on temporary furlough, company officials announced. Railroad officials admitted between 300 and 400 employees in the soft coal region will be dropped. They declined to estimate the total number of men to be laid off.

"The bituminous coal business represents 40 percent of the railroad's total tonnage and 25 percent of its freight revenue," a Pennsylvania spokesman said.

"Actually, the men are not being furloughed. They merely are being laid off until the coal business is resumed. The layoff goes all down the line from the trainmen to the shops."

PRESIDENT ASKS CHANCE FOR YOUTH OF WORLD

WASHINGTON, April 26 — President Roosevelt called the world's attention anew today to his appeal to Europe's dictators for guaranteed peace as he opened a White House conference on "children in a democracy."

The President declared the safety of present-day democracy depends on diffusion of opportunities for developing leadership and character in youth, and said:

"The success of democratic institutions is measured, not by extent of territory, financial power, machines or armament, but by the desires, the hopes, and the deepening satisfactions of the individual men, women and children who make up its citizenship."

POLICE PROTECT CROONER'S SONS FROM KIDNAPING

Philip Lang and Dennis Michael, 5-year-old twins, Harry, 18 months, and Gary Evan, 6, Receipt of a threatening letter in the fan mail about ten days ago was disclosed by Everett Crosby, brother and manager of Bing.

"This letter was disposed of in the routine manner," he said, indicating it had been turned over to G-men immediately.

It was understood, however, that this letter had no connection with information which moved the federal agents to their swift action.

Studio sources revealed that guards had patrolled the crooner's home ever since G-men began their inquiry. Persons entering the fenced property are carefully observed and followed, they said.

The Crosby brothers took out gun permits about five years ago when a kidnaping threat was made against Bing's eldest child, Gary. No actual move was ever made against the boy, however.

Letter In Fan Mail
With reference to the letter found in the fan mail, Crosby said: "It's really nothing unusual. We get them every once in a while and I don't pay much attention to them."

"There's nothing you can do about it, anyway."

He did admit, however, that he had hired the guards to police his grounds 24 hours a day.

MENTAL CRUELTY CHARGED IN STAN LAUREL'S SUIT

HOLLYWOOD, April 26—Charging his wife, Ileana, with mental cruelty, Stan Laurel, noted comedian had a divorce suit on file against her in court today.

The action was filed a short time after Ileana had dropped her $1,000 a month separate maintenance suit, and, since the couple have entered into a property settlement agreement, it was believed Laurel would receive no opposition to the divorce.

Laurel accused his Russian wife of staying away from home for days at a time and returning intoxicated. He pictured himself as a devoted husband.

that he had dropped Schlett at a Sandusky riding academy and then gone to a downtown Sandusky cafe, outside of which he collided with a truck, smashing a headlight lens.

Orrin C. Young, riding academy employee, testified after Mrs. Schlett that Schlett was at the academy in the afternoon but not in the evening. His evidence was substantiated by Joseph Babcock, riding academy proprietor, who said that Schlett had attempted to arrange a sleigh ride for the night of the 26th, but had failed.

Under cross-examination by Special Defense Counsel Ben Leland of Washington, D. C., Babcock admitted that Schlett had called two Sandusky girls and asked them to go on the sleigh ride that never materialized.

Mrs. Schlett said that her husband and Hastings were involved in some sort of a "deal," the details of which she did not know.

Earlier the state called Dr. Joseph Laird of Dearborn, Mich., and Wallace R. Brode, Ohio State chemistry professor, in an attempt to prove that glass found beside Schlett's body came from Hastings' automobile. Plaster casts and photographs showed that the glass fragments fitted the car and Laird, a chemist for the Ford Motor Co., said the glass came from the same model car as that driven by Hastings.

Conscription Looked On As Definite Warning To Reich's Fuehrer

sources into erection of a gigantic military machine.

Under pressure from France and Britain's other continental allies, Chamberlain became convinced that only by this means can the peace of Europe be saved.

No exemptions are planned except on medical grounds, the prime minister said. All men will be treated alike once they are conscripted he emphasized, in an effort to assure the trade unionists that there would be no discrimination by class or caste.

Under present plans, the conscripts will serve a period of six months in the regular army, after which time they will have the option of joining the territorial army or being transferred to the regular army reserve.

The territorials, fundamentally intended for service abroad, correspond to the United States National Guard.

ing the speech the Fuehrer will deliver Friday.

Today, however, the British envoy called at the foreign office and conferred, not with Von Ribbentrop, but with a subordinate official, Secretary of State Freiherr Von Weizsaecker.

The nature of their discussion was not disclosed.

In addition to lining up support of such nations as Yugoslavia, Lithuania and Finland, Hitler has been devoting himself to preparation of his reply to President Roosevelt.

II Duce Informed

It was learned that the Fuehrer will speak for two hours on Friday and that an outline of what he will say is already in the hands of his axis partner, Premier Mussolini.

In the last few days, to fortify himself with arguments, Hitler has studied numerous phases of American history, apparently looking for points with which he will seek to justify German policies and to refute objections to them.

Von Ribbentrop, it was revealed, definitely will not see Sir Neville Henderson before Hitler's Reichstag address. The fact that the British diplomat is being permitted to "cool his heels" was regarded as being stressed through his reception by Weizsaecker rather than by some higher official.

The government is believed to have adopted these tactics toward Sir Neville in order to avoid giving the impression that any concrete proposals included in Hitler's speech will have resulted from foreign pressure.

The German attitude toward Great Britain at the moment was reflected in press comment which branded as "sour grapes" the British efforts to belittle the headway made by the Reich with Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Reports from London regarding British conscription were dismissed as "propaganda" by German newspapers, which pointed out that the British Labor party and trade unions have traditionally opposed compulsory military service.

"It would be silly," said the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, "to believe the German government could be surprised by British conscription or deflected from its course by warnings or threats."

Called "Bluff"

The Nachtausgabe carried a headline on British conscription reading: "England's New Political Bluff."

Official German quarters took the attitude that conscription is England's own business, but privately belittled Britain's capitulation to "French political demands."

The British budget was presented to the German reading public under the slogan "The Little Man Must Pay," with emphasis on the cost of maintaining Britain's sprawling empire and a hint that the "breaking point" is not far off.

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT costs less per square foot of surface painted and outlasts ordinary paints—both of these merits are due to its high quality. Some low-grade paints analyzed by recognized laboratories were found to contain 63% of water and other evaporating liquids. This left only 37% of film-forming solids to protect the surface. Lowe Brothers High Standard Liquid Paint contains 50% of protective film-forming solids. Be sure of better results and more pleasing effects before you paint.
